E.A.G.L.E. CENTER UPDATE

Welcome to this school year's first edition of the EC Newsletter! Thanks for picking this up to read! We hope you enjoy it. If you have any comments or suggestions to give us, be the first to e-mail us this year at ECNL0910@gmail.com.

Here's what you can expect from our first issue: we have some school-related news and a few pictures from Homecoming and other events for you to enjoy, and you can send out some belated birthday greetings when you have checked out Lafay PayPay's birthday page. For a creepy tale to get you ready for Halloween, read Chance Thompson's story "Terror From the Toybox," and then relax again with Gage Black Elk's Holiday Word Search. Do you even know when all of those holidays are? The original list was definitely a group effort!

Many of the titles and artwork you see, as well as the optical illusion in the back, are thanks to the talents of Darius Lee. We hope you find good news on Danielle Antonio's horoscope page, regardless of whether or not it comes true! Finally, get to know one of the faces around the E.A.G.L.E. Center a little better with a mini-interview from our school liaison officer, Donnie Mitchell.

That's it for our first issue! Keep reading, and feel free to submit ideas yourself!

Thanks, Miss Osthus and the ECNL staff 2010-2011

STUDENT COUNCIL WORKSHOP

The Region Student Council Workshop was held in Mobridge, SD on Wednesday, October 20th, and their theme for the school year is iLead. Students from ten different high schools attended as part of the Upper Missouri region. In all, seven students attended from C-EB High School and the E.A.G.L.E. Center, and Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Maynard chaperoned the trip.

EC freshman Josh Mestes attended. When asked how the experience had been for him, he nodded and said, "It was good." He really enjoyed some of the large group activities. Mestes was an EC I student last year, and has had a comfortable transition to EC II, especially since he is still with many of his former classmates from last year. We think his work ethic and his easygoing nature are going to be a great asset to E.A.G.L.E. Center II.

KGFX TRIP: WHY ARE YOU DRUG-FREE?

Each fall, EC Counselor Gina Veo brings two students, who team up with a group from C-EB High School, to speak at the KGFX radio station in Pierre. These students are required to write a greeting and an exhortation to their peers to stay drug-free. At the radio station, each of these students get to read their greetings as the station records them, and they are aired at a later date.

This year, Mrs. Veo chose Nikki

Knight and Cameron Wright to bring their voices to the airwaves, and they drove to Pierre on Tuesday, October 19th. This was our second try this year, because of illnesses and absences both at the EC and at the High School on the originally scheduled date.

Mrs. Veo said that we have many students she knows are drug-free, but these students showed up and they were well prepared to give their messages.

ECNL: Where you popular in high school? DM: Yes, I was.

ECNL: What is your dream car? DM: I have owned a Spitfire Trans Am before.

ECNL: Where would you go on vacation if you could?

DM: Anywhere is good as long as it's with my family. It's about quality time.

ECNL: How long have you been working for the school?

DM: Ten years, and I have been a Police Officer since 1992.

ECNL: What do you like best about the school? What do you like least? DM: I like joking with the kids and having fun, it passes time. I don't like the drama from outside that comes into the school.

ECNL: What's your favorite school lunch? DM: Pizza and Cheeseburgers.

Terror From the Toybox

On an ordinary day, in an ordinary house, Andy was celebrating his eighth birthday. It was around noon when Andy got to open his presents. He opened all his presents except one, the one his momma wouldn't let him open. This was probably because it was all black—even the ribbon was black, a bit darker than the homemade gift wrap.

There was a knot on it, but there was no name saying who it was from. All it said was, "Curiosity Killed The Cat." Because of that, Andy's momma was a little superstitious, but then Andy kept bugging and bugging her about it, so eventually she let him open it. But first, she said, "The only way I'll let you open it is if you can understand the saying, 'Curiosity Killed The Cat,'" and when he had told her he understood, he opened it so quickly that he forgot what it really meant.

When he finally got it open there was only a teddy bear sitting there, but after some time it started to mutate right before his very eyes. A fly-like monster started ripping out of the teddy bear! Andy hastily ran out of his room, barely making it while kicking the bear to get off of him and screaming at the top of his lungs like a young girl would scream bloody murder.

When he got out, all his little toys (who were obviously alive) tried to kill the bear. However, as soon as the mutated bear-fly-monster got close enough it shot this ugly white-looking stuff and some of it got on the cowboy's face and melted it until just his shoulders, torso, and limbs remained. After that the mutant toy got a hold of Mr. Potato Head and merked him real quick, and then every other toy after that would surely no longer have the life that any toy should have.

Then eventually Andy got sick and tired of playing with toys, and decided that he didn't need or want to know the rest of the story. He never cared to know how it all happened, and it never even ran through his head at any point while he was growing up... until years later...

Horoscopes for October 25th-31st

W An unusual approach gets results on Monday, whether it's at work, in a social setting or in romance. Handle domestic matters, bills, errands and the promptness around Tuesday and Wednesday. It'll enable you to start concentrating on bigger, better things, like the very interesting change or idea that comes between Thursday and Saturday. By Sunday, you're ready to take a closer look, delve deeper and possibly even begin an important transformation.

O You're extra articulate, let someone know how your feeling as the week begins. Home certainly is where your heart is around Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Take some time off work if possible, and rather than going out, plan to have people over. Friday or Saturday could find you locking horns with someone who's as stubborn as you; a third party can help you get perspective or even act as mediator. Plan something fun (or even romantic!) for Sunday --

S If indecision has you in its grip on Monday, assemble a panel of consultants -- coworkers if it's professional; friends if it's personal. They'll at least expand your understanding of the factors. Watch for injured pride or hurt feelings Tuesday or Wednesday. You may be taking things a bit personally; the lion's a sensitive beast now. But from Thursday - Saturday, you're confident, creative, radiant, inspired and inspiring. Work, romance, fun -- have it your way. Sunday, you may just want to curl up for a catnap.

M Beware of entanglements involving other people's money on Monday, whether it's a work budget, a personal loan or just a debate about who's going to pay for lunch. Tuesday - Thursday, your combination of intellect and instinct means you make excellent choices and smart moves though knowing when to wait and see what'll happen can be the smartest move of all. You may feel like making a splash at work or play on Friday or Saturday, but a subtle approach has its own rewards. Sunday, a puzzle can be solved with a little more

H Monday keep your goals realistic and your inner critic on 'mute.' You're in the spotlight Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday, you look good in the glow. Don't be surprised if you gain some new fans (or if things heat up in the love department!). Be leery of that person who wants your honest opinion on Friday or Saturday. Do you really want to go there? No need to dissemble; just ask them questions instead. Lend a hand to somebody in need on Sunday -- your karma will thank you, if they don't.

I Monday's custom-made for meeting new people. Whether it's in a work or social setting, you put them right at ease (and may even flirt with them!). Tuesday & Wednesday, you're in a conservative frame of mind than usual, which could be a good thing -- revisit your personal budget and set some realistic financial goals. You're all fun and games Thursday & Saturday, but you're also whip-smart and action-oriented. Enjoy yourself, but be aware that you're having quite an impact, too. Sunday looks just right for projects and errands. You're a bit of a perfectionist that day.

E That brain of yours is moving fast on Monday, so fast that your mouth may not be able to keep up. Slow down or risk saying something a bit off. Being around people -- whether working with a group, hanging out with a friend or getting out and mixing with a crowd -- charges you up between Tuesday and Thursday. Why go it alone when fun and support are there? Friday and Saturday have a lot going on; show how adaptable you can be and you may just end up enjoying yourself. Sunday kicks off a couple of great days for you personally.

W What someone's telling you on Monday may sound pretty sweet, but do they intend to follow up? There's no need to be paranoid; just be aware. Around Tuesday and Wednesday, everything's up for questioning, but in a searching, productive way. Advance your personal goals and expand your personal outlook. Then it's lucky you from Thursday through Saturday, when everything is very likely to go your way, and even the detours are a heck of a lot of fun. Maybe it's not luck -- maybe it's your optimism, honesty and humor. Plan some time alone on Sunday to look back and regroup.

T Monday involves a flurry of communication, plenty of excitement and the possibility of a missed connection. Get clear on what you're doing (and have a backup plan, too). You may be in a delicate emotional state Tuesday or Wednesday; a talk with an empathetic soul, or even some physical activity, could help immensely. Be ready for some spectacular energy Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Adventure? Sure. Inspiration? Indeed. Romance? Why not? Reach out -- what you want is there. Sunday brings a slowdown that's a welcome change of pace.

C Cranky's no way to start this week, but you'll have to make a real effort to avoid it -- get a little exercise and give yourself a treat. Then, from Tuesday through sometime Thursday, it's the stars that are boosting your morale -- look for rejuvenating energy, inspirational ideas and spot-on intuition. You have an extravagant streak around Friday or Saturday, but check your budget before you indulge it -- and ask yourself whether it'll make you happy in a meaningful way. Simple can be best. Tidy up on Sunday, and catch up with someone you miss, too.

O You're much more forthcoming than usual on Monday, and a regular conversation could turn into a true heart-to-heart. Tuesday & Wednesday, a personal or work project could hit a roadblock; while you figure out a detour, offer someone else some roadside assistance. Doing so is great for your karma. Friends and relationships are favored from Thursday through Saturday. You've got a great vibe at that time, and everyone wants to be by your side. Doing as little as possible may be the most appealing way to spend your Sunday.

S Say what you mean and mean what you say on Monday -- extra padding or chitchat just confuses issues. Between Tuesday and Thursday, you may experience the 'grass is greener' effect; you want whatever it is you don't have. Keep plans loose, and make sure you take advantage of activities that calm you down -- exercise, a talk with a friend, whatever. Take care with work-related relationships around Friday or Saturday. Fostering the good parts and defusing the suboptimal takes a light touch. Sunday begins a great few days for you personally;
